Family History Microfilm
No Longer Available on Loan

On September 1st, the delivery of FHL microfilm upon request was ended and now you should begin using digital copies that are accessible through www.familysearch.org.

The rapid advance in the digitization of microfilm has made it much easier to create digital forms of the images from microfilm. Every microfilm reel loaned in the past five years by the Family History Library has been digitized and is online for easy access. Over 1.5 million reels of microfilm have already been digitized and offer about 1.5 billion images.

They continue to digitize microfilm at a rate of about 1,000 reels per day. It has been projected that every reel of film in their collection can be transferred to digital images by the year 2020.

As new records are obtained from around the world, they are directly converted to digital images and no longer even go into microfilm images. When you are looking for information to enhance your family research you have three important tools at the https://familysearch.org website. After signing in to the website, look at the SEARCH heading on the front page. Then select Catalog, Books or Records. The Catalog covers all of the genealogical research materials in the Family History Library (including books, microfiche, microfilm, and all of the other resources in the familysearch collections). Under Books you will find digital copies of books at the Family History library as well as other cooperating libraries who share their genealogical resources. A Record search will lead to indexed digital records or to images available by image browsing.

This change will not eliminate the use of Family History Centers, for they will still have records that are not public.

and they have permission to keep any of the microfilm that they currently hold. The volunteers at the Family History Centers are still available to assist you planning your research. Read the full article at http://media.familysearch.org/familysearch-digital-records-access-replacing-microfilm/
~ Gary Zimmerman

A new not-for-profit entity was formed in New York with the express purpose of locating public records that have never been released for easy public access. The group consists of genealogists, historians, lawyers, and open government advocates. They report that they “identify important genealogical records sets that ought to be in the public domain but which are wrongly restricted by government archives, libraries, and agencies.”

The group files Freedom of Information and Open Data requests to get this data released to a public venue. When “government” resists, they take them to court. When the data is released, they digitize the records and place them online for free.
Take a look at their website at https://www.reclaimtherecords.org/ and see how their initial court successes have led to useful releases of records in the New York and New Jersey area. The site also lists desired records where work is still in progress.

All of their “freed” data can be found on www.archive.org after it has been collated and placed in digital format.

An example of their success: New York City Marriage Index https://archive.org/details/nycmarriageindex describes the different types of records kept for marriages at different times. One database does not answer all of the questions you might have!

They have a free newsletter that gives updates on their progress. ~ Gary Zimmerman
Recently acquired books are processed by cataloguing, entering the Fiske Library holding information into WorldCat, and affixing ownership barcodes to bound books (on the back cover and on the title page).

Once they are finally on the shelving in the library, they appear in our “Recent Acquisitions” list in the Newsletter. Library of Congress call numbers [in square brackets below] will quickly lead you to the material on the shelf at the Fiske Library.

If the LC number is followed by PAWA, the book must be retrieved from other library collections within the building. Ask a volunteer for assistance.

Newsletter Submissions

Have you discovered a particularly useful resource in your research, or broken through a brick wall? Would you be interested in submitting an article for the newsletter? Articles can be 1-2 pages long and may be subject to gentle editorial comment.

Is there a class you’d like to see offered or is there a research issue on which you are stuck? Your editor would like to feature a semi-regular column with your input.

Our newsletter is published in September, December, April and June. Deadlines are the 20th of the month preceding publication.

Please send queries or submissions to editor@fiskelibrary.org.
Our Appreciation for Book Donations

We appreciate the contributions by the following supporters of the Fiske Library. Since the last newsletter, donations have been catalogued and added to the collections on the shelves. There often is a lag between the date of the actual donation and the completion of the cataloguing, book repair, and placement in the active collection. Each of these titles may be located through the WorldCat catalog, available from the home page of the Fiske Library website.

Genealogical Collections at Fiske Library now have Finding Aids

Developing Finding Aids for collections donated to the Fiske Library, usually following the death of the researcher, is a long term project undertaken by Carolyn Blount. Carolyn began taking classes from Arthur Fiske in about 1983. She has been one of the regular weekly volunteers for almost 30 years, also serving as treasurer and secretary, and for the last five years has been working on this project.

Carolyn took the Archiving class offered by NARA to help train her for the task of indexing these documents. As a result of her experience, she offers some tips to others wondering what will become of their own genealogical collections. Researchers might now consider the following:

- A description of the collection with a pedigree chart visually showing the relationship between family surnames in the front of each file or notebook.
- Elimination of duplicate materials, especially Xerox copies of journal articles without source references.
- Identify photographs.
- Computer print-outs from various web sites are not of value to others when so easily accessible.
- An index, created by the researcher for his/ her own collection, would be wonderful!

The first seven collections were posted to the Fiske web site several years ago, and were reviewed in an earlier edition of this Newsletter. Ten more collections have just been added. These collections contain many original documents, correspondence, photographs and biographies of families that ended up in the Pacific Northwest.

On the Fiske home page scroll down to “Finding Aids for the Archive Collections...”; this link takes you to the Index. A link on the general index takes you to a .pdf file with full itemized description of what is available noted as “xx page index.” https://fiskelibrary.org/FindingAids/archives/

Collections previously linked to the Fiske web page include:

| Karen Bridgeman, BRIDGEMAN | William Merritt Smith, SMITH |
| Bacon Clark, Ruth Margaret Clark, CLARK | Ginny Wisner, WISNER |
| Paul Gibbs, GIBBS | Bryan Young, YOUNG |
| Pat Hanson, HANSON |

Collections newly linked to the Fiske website include the following.

- Dorothy Hale AMIS, 3 Boxes, 37 Folders, 13 page index
  Information on the collateral lines of her husband, Paul Courtland Amis back to Virginia and includes information from her collaborator, Elizabeth Steadman Owings.

- Audrey BOWNE, 8 boxes, 21 Notebooks, 70 page index
  The goal seemed to be to obtain information on all existing Bowne families. Pages are primarily computer print-outs from various web sites, chronologically arranged by date of birth. Earliest American Bownes were from Monmouth County, New Jersey.
Genealogical Collections at Fiske Library now have Finding Aids

- Jacqueline CEDARHOLM, 3 Boxes, 27 notebooks/folders, 35 page index
  Material on the Morgan Morgans Coal Mining family from Tydfil, Glamorgan, Wales to Pennsylvania, and Placer County, California where he discovered the Sutter Gold Streak and was superintendant of the Norton Black Diamond Coal Mines. The entire town later moved to Black Diamond, Washington. Material on Jacqueline’s father, Peter Francis Cedarholm of Ringavarum, Ostergotlands, Sweden is included.

- Mildred Baptista Eaton, EATON, 12 boxes, 63 page index
  Materials on Mildred’s Baptista and Videtta families who came from the Azores to Petaluma, California in the late 1800s and her husband’s family, the Eatons of Maidenhead, England.

- Sue Eidal, EIDEL, 6 boxes, 24 page index
  The collection is of the Eidal and Churchill families who came to Ellensburg, Washington in 1887. The Norweigan Eidal families are traced back into the 1500s.

- Bess Giesler Morgan, FIX Collection, 1 box, 3 page index
  Morgan’s manuscript and collection of FIX papers tells of descendants of Henry Fix, eldest son of Jacob Fix, the weaver, of Birdsboro, Berks County, Pennsylvania, by 1739, Virginia and Ohio.

- Priscilla Greenlees, GREENLEES, 1 box, 2 page index
  The Greenlees collection comprises a single box of information on the Colstad and McKenzie family of Attleboro, Massachusetts.

- Euretta V. DeBoer Shirley, SHIRLEY, 9 Boxes, 16 page index
  Nine boxes of materials on the Dutch DeBoer family and Shirley’s husband’s family illuminate their migration from Holland and Sweden through Iowa and Nebraska. There are many family photos.

- Virginia LeMay Stender, STENDER, 17 bins, 37 page index
  Stender’s interest was primarily in lineage associations and her materials reflect her dozen memberships and their royal connections. The collection may also be of interest because of her brother’s well known collection of historic automobiles at the LeMay Museum in Tacoma.

  The VanKleek collection consists of files on many of the collateral lines that joined the family of Simeon Van Kleek as William VanKleek updated an earlier version of the VanKleek family from Holland. Many early family photos are included.
If you are interested in joining some other beginners who use Legacy 9, please join us on the second Wednesdays of the month from 1 to 3 pm. A few of us real beginners want to learn from each other. Come to the first meeting Sept 13 and help decide how this group will operate. We will meet in the Pioneer Hall room where the classes are taught.

Look forward to someone joining me.

Mary Peters

The Forgotten 1885 Federal Census

The Family History Daily website, a genealogy information site, has an article on accessing the less well known 1885 Federal Census. Explore the rest of the website as well; it has some interesting features. http://familyhistorydaily.com/free-genealogy-resources/the-forgotten-federal-census-of-1885-online-for-free/

The Métis Nation of Ontario has announced the completion of the Ontario Métis Root Ancestors Project. The Metis are the descendants of First Nations people and colonial-era Europeans. The project includes over 100,000 historic records providing valuable genealogical information. The records can be accessed on the Metis website. http://www.metisnation.org/

How Old Do I Look? This is an interesting free Microsoft site: https://how-old.net/
Point it to any photograph and it will instantly estimate the age of each person in the photo.

The Fiske Library will be closed for Thanksgiving on Wednesday and Thursday, November 22-23, and re-open on Saturday, November 25. At end-of-year the library will be closed on December 18th and re-open on Saturday, January 6, 2018.
Contribute to “History Unfolded”

Looking for an easy way to make a big difference? Newspapers.com invites you to participate in the History Unfolded project run by the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum! The full blog article is available at https://blog.newspapers.com/make-a-difference-with-history-unfolded/>

What is History Unfolded? History Unfolded is a project that seeks to expand our knowledge of how American newspapers reported on Nazi persecution during the 1930s and ’40s so we can better understand what Americans knew about the Holocaust as it was happening.

To help achieve this, the History Unfolded project asks people like you to search local newspapers from the 1930s and ’40s for Holocaust-related news and opinions and then submit them online to the museum.

Who Can Contribute? Everyone! History buffs, students, teachers . . . All you need is an interest in the Holocaust and access to a newspaper from the 1930s or ’40s, either online (using Newspapers.com, for example) or through a physical archive, such as a library. Simply create an account with History Unfolded, and away you go!

Transcribe original documents for Digital Maine

Digital Maine has set up an easy to use online system for transcribing original documents from their archives. In the process you have access to a rich cache of historical and genealogical information. I have been working on family letters from the Civil War.

The project and registration process is explained at http://www.digitalmaine.net/projects/

Carefully read the instructions and then begin. The transcription screen shows a digital image on the right, while a box on the left is open for input. Transcriptions are kept online for review by another person, so the work is cross checked for accuracy. You may also engage in that work.

I found it easiest to open the image in a new window (one of the options) where it can be enlarged. I then open a Notepad file to transcribe on top of the image. When I revert back to the original screen, I transfer [cut/paste] the Notepad text to the transcription box and review it before saving.

DID YOU KNOW?

Thousands of United States-born women lost their citizenship through marriage between 1907 and 1922. During that time period, a married woman’s citizenship status was determined by her husband’s nationality. In 1922, Congress passed the Cable Act, which allowed women to retain their citizenship after marriage. It did not, however, restore U.S. citizenship to women who had previously lost it through marriage.
